PURPOSE, AIM AND LEARNING OUTCOMES FOR THE DIPLOMA UNITS

UNIT D 1 – CONTRIBUTING TO THE PROCESS OF JOB ANALYSIS

Purpose and Aim of Unit

The overall focus of this unit is to develop the learner's understanding of the principles and practice of job analysis and job design. The unit content is designed as an introduction to the knowledge and skills required in the use of a number of methods of conducting job analysis. Specifically, the unit will enable the learner to articulate the purpose of disaggregating jobs into component parts, that is, job analysis, to provide the foundation for a number of broader human resources (HR) practices. In particular, the unit focuses on the principles of job design and the use of job analysis data in the practice of job design. It is also designed to cover additional ways job analysis is used, including but not limited to recruitment and selection, job evaluation and equal pay. Learners will develop a better understanding of how job analysis and design fits within the broader professional area of organisation design.

On completion of this unit, learners will be able to:

1. Explain the principles, purposes and practice of job analysis.
2. Contribute to the process of job analysis.

UNIT D 2 – IDENTIFYING LEARNING AND DEVELOPMENT NEEDS

Purpose and Aim of Unit

For individuals and their organisations to respond to changing environments and exploit emerging opportunities they need to ensure the quality and currency of their skills, knowledge and capabilities. Taking a pro-active approach to identifying learning needs is a key part of this, and often the responsibility of the L&D practitioner. This unit supports the development of the skills required to undertake an effective identification of others' learning needs. It begins with a consideration of why individual and group learning needs arise and why it is important for both organisations and individuals to be aware of them. The unit goes on to explore the types of information required for identifying L&D needs and different methods for collecting and analysing this information. Learners are required to apply their knowledge to the practical identification and prioritisation of individual or group needs, and to specify their findings in an appropriate format, along with any other identified factors that might affect the learning solution.

On completion of this unit, learners will be able to:

- 1 Understand how learning and development needs arise and why it is important to be aware of them.
- 2 Be able to identify, prioritise and specify learning and development needs.

UNIT D 3 – SUPPORTING CHANGE WITHIN ORGANISATIONS

Purpose and Aim of Unit

This unit covers the main factors that need to be considered in the change process and will enable learners to understand why organisations need to change with reference to key internal and external factors. Change concepts and different ways of managing change will be introduced. People also respond to change in different ways and this manifests itself in variable behaviours. This aspect will be given particular attention along with the implications for the human resources (HR) function. Learners will develop a better understanding of the change process and enhance their ability to support the organisation and its employees.

On completion of this unit, learners will understand:

1. Why organisations need to change and how change affects organisations.
2. The key factors involved in the change process and different approaches to managing change.
3. The impact of change on employees and the role of HR.
