

Director Roles

The Organisation

The Institute of Public Administration's new five-year strategy entitled "A New Era of Learning: Strategy 2022–2027", sets out the vision for 2027 for the IPA to be Ireland's recognised Centre of Excellence in building capacity and capability across all the public service. It makes it a very exciting time to join the organisation. The IPA is a leading provider of accredited third-level education, professional learning and development, advisory, publications and research services for the Public Service in Ireland. Its mission is to advance the understanding, standard and practice of public administration and public policy, supporting our public service to deliver on the complex challenges it faces.

The Roles

Both roles will be part of the Executive Leadership Team and report directly to the Director General of the IPA.

Director of Professional Development:

The Director of Professional Development will lead the IPA's Professional Development Department in alignment with and supporting the overarching IPA strategic goals and direction. The individual will lead the management and development of the IPA's professional development portfolio in addition to being a key contact point across the Public Service for the provision of advisory services. This will include the following areas: Governance, Assurance, Risk, Audit, Finance, Local Government, Business Systems, Digital Transformation, Strategic HRM and People Development.

Director of Senior Public Service:

The role of Director of Senior Public Service (Strategic Leadership Development) will lead on the development of senior strategic leadership capability across all areas of the Public Service. The initial focus of the role will be on executive development within the Civil Service and Local Government with a view to expanding to other sectors in the medium term. The individual will develop strong relationships with key stakeholders in the Public Service and externally with Executive Learning providers and faculties, ensuring all programme content design and delivery is best in class.
