CHAPTER 1 - INTRODUCTION / BACKGROUND

This is the second language scheme prepared by the IPA in accordance with Section 15 of the Official Languages Act, 2003 (“hereinafter referred to as the Act”). Section 11 provides for the preparation by public bodies of a statutory scheme detailing the services they will provide;

- through the medium of Irish,
- through the medium of English, and
- through the medium of Irish and English

and the measures to be adopted to ensure that any service not provided by the body through the medium of the Irish language will be so provided within an agreed timeframe.

The Institute’s first language scheme was implemented over a three year period from 01 April 2007. This scheme builds on the Institute’s first scheme and on the custom and practice that has been operative within the Institute, as well as the principles of Quality Customer Service.

1.1 Guidelines for Preparation of a Scheme

Section 12 of the Act provides for the preparation of guidelines by the Minister for Arts, Heritage and the Gaeltacht and their issue to public bodies to assist in the preparation of schemes. This scheme has been drawn up following consultation with staff and representative stakeholders and has been informed by submissions and suggestions received. The Institute appreciates the time and effort put in by all concerned in this process.

The scheme sets out the targets the Institute has set itself for the next three years and indicates priority areas. Responsibility for monitoring and review will rest with the Senior Management of the Institute.

1.2 The Content of the Language Scheme

The services provided are currently largely through English. The Institute has a limited number of staff with verbal and/or written competencies in Irish.

It is therefore established that the priorities for this scheme are to:

1. Further enhance staff competency in Irish – both oral and written
2. Increase awareness among all staff of the content and purpose of the scheme
3. Plan to extend staff competency in Irish so that more staff can assist in responding to enquiries in Irish.

1.3 Commencement Date of Scheme

This scheme has been confirmed by the Minister for Arts, Heritage and the Gaeltacht. The scheme will commence with effect from 18 May 2015 and shall remain in force for a period of 3 years from this date or until a new scheme has been confirmed by the Minister pursuant to Section 15 of the Act, whichever is the later.

1.4 Overview of the Institute of Public Administration

1.4.1 The Institute

The Institute of Public Administration is the Irish national centre for the development of best practice in public administration and public management. Our education programmes are tailored to the needs of public servants, while our publishing and research services offer an informed voice and forum for discussion and debate on public service issues.

The Institute was founded in 1957 by a group of dedicated public servants who recognised the need to promote the study of – and to improve standards in – public administration. Its founders were distinguished public servants: one of its founders and subsequently one of the signatories of its articles and memorandum of association, Dr Garret FitzGerald, later became Taoiseach. They were conscious of educational models from abroad such as the Ecole Nationale d'Administration in Paris, with its profound influence on the higher echelons of the French civil service and throughout French public administration.

These far-sighted individuals set about engaging key public sector managers in a dialogue aimed at developing a vision of a modern Irish public service, and built an organisation - which is now approaching its 60th year in existence - around their vision. Thanks to its current and past achievements, and the quality of the work conducted by staff and management, the IPA now has a firm foothold as Ireland's public sector development agency, expertly delivering services in the key areas of education, publishing, research and training.

A voluntary body, the Institute became a company limited by guarantee in 1963. Individual membership is open to all those engaged or interested in the study of public administration. Corporate membership is open to public service associations, government departments, local authorities, HSE and statutory bodies.

The Institute conducts its business from 6 terraced Georgian houses and a Training and Education Centre on Lansdowne Road, Dublin 4.

Today the IPA draws to Lansdowne Road public servants from all parts of the country as well as students from the USA, Central and Eastern Europe and Asia. Equally Institute staff travel throughout the country and to Europe, Africa and other overseas destinations to deliver their specialised services.

1.4.2 Our Vision Statement

The purpose of the Institute of Public Administration is:

To advance the understanding, standard and practice of Public Administration and Public Policy.

A copy of the Institute's Corporate Strategy is available on request or may be downloaded from the Institute's website – www.ipa.ie

Detailed Information on our Structure and Organisation

The Structure of the Institute is as follows:

The following committees have been established to provide a support function to the Board:

1. Administration Committee
2. Audit Committee
3. Finance and Strategy Committee

The President is recommended for appointment by the Board and ratified at the Institute's AGM. He/she is appointed for a period of three years and will be eligible for appointment for one further period of office. Vice Presidents are appointed in the same way.

The President is responsible for chairing the Annual General Meeting and for hearing appeals to Board decisions to expel a member from the Institute.

The Chairperson is elected by the members of the Board and is responsible for

- ensuring that board members understand their corporate roles and responsibilities and are effective in all aspects of their role.

The Education, Training, Research, Publications & Corporate Relations as well as all of the staff support functions report to the Director General. These reporting arrangements are outlined below:

1.4.3 Divisions

Education

The provision of educational services for the public service has always been a core Institute activity. Primary degree, diploma and certificate programmes are offered through distance education or through lectures at the Lansdowne Road Training and Education Centre. Postgraduate programmes are offered through distance education, supported by attendance at seminars and tutorials held in Dublin. The IPA became a recognised college of the UCD in 2011. In 2004 the Institute launched the Whitaker School of Government and Management, which brings together our education, research and professional development activities in a synergistic way.

Research

The Institute houses Ireland's only dedicated public management research resource. This is a comprehensive and tailored research service aimed at helping organisations perform to their maximum capability. We deliver applied research on a commission basis, working closely with clients to identify problems and achieve informed solutions that make a difference.

Library

The small specialised library provides information, reference and lending services to Institute students, members and staff. If clients are not able to visit the library in person, materials may be requested by letter, fax, phone or email. The library's extensive electronic catalogue may be accessed from the Institute's website: www.ipa.ie.

Publishing

The Institute is the only Irish publisher specialising in texts on public administration and public management. Our books and periodicals analyse and provide information on policy areas of interest to public servants and students of public administration and management. The Institute's publications are also a useful resource for politicians, commentators, libraries and others with a special interest in Irish public affairs. Topics include economics, education, government and politics, healthcare management, international affairs, law, local government, public affairs, human resource management, financial management and social affairs.

Membership and Corporate Relations

The Institute is the professional body for public servants. It caters for those in the civil service, local authorities, health service, state-sponsored bodies, education sector, Garda Síochána and the Defence Forces. Our membership and corporate relations services identify the demands facing public servants and their organisations and promote initiatives that will assist them in meeting these challenges. Members are kept abreast of current public management issues through access to special briefings, an e-newsletter and the journal Administration, and they enjoy discounts on publications and other services. Members are consulted about current public management issues and future IPA service provision and thereby contribute to the professional thrust of the Institute.

Training and Development

The Institute's Training and Development Division provides training, professional development, consultancy, seminars and conferences that are specifically designed to meet the needs of public servants. The Division works in partnership with clients in the local government, health, civil service and state agency sectors to develop new skills and competencies. Our programme design makes use of real work-based business issues to drive learning and development. Our specialists combine expertise in a specific discipline (for example management, HR, IT, financial management, and personal development) with a deep understanding of the public sector. A number of staff track policy development for specific sectors and organise opportunities for discussion, debate and reflection on topical issues.

- Civil Service
- Local Authorities
- Health Service Executive
- Non-commercial public bodies
- UCD
- Local Government Management Association
- Students

The customer service standards commitments adopted by the Institute of Public Administration in relation to delivery of services to our customers shall apply to those services, whether delivered in the Irish language or in the English language.

1.6 Assessment of Extent to which services are already available through Irish

The objective of this scheme is to continue the delivery of previous commitments and build on the progress achieved across the IPA over the period of the last scheme. It sets out a commitment on behalf of the Institute and its staff to develop the extent to which services are currently available through Irish and it identifies areas for future enhancement.

The new scheme also builds on the principles of Quality Customer Service and will continue to ensure that people who wish to conduct their business in Irish are facilitated.

The main function of the Institute is to provide educational and training courses as well as research and consultancy and has experienced minimal demand for services through Irish. The vast majority of these services are provided through the medium of English. This will remain to be the case for the foreseeable future.

The Yearbook and Diary is the Institute's premier publication. It includes information on every public sector organisation and large Irish companies, a diary and statistical information and research. The names of organisations are already included bilingually. The days and months in the diary are in Irish and English and there is also a useful section bilingually on terms that deal with the public service. This amount of Irish in the Yearbook and Diary will be maintained.

CHAPTER 2 - PROVISION OF GENERAL INSTITUTIONAL SERVICES/ACTIVITIES

This chapter sets out the official languages regime operated by the Institute in relation to the general provision of its services. Chapter 3 sets out the position in relation to service provision/activities by individual Divisions within the Institute.

2.1 Means of Communication with the Public/Information to the public

By the end of the period encompassed by this scheme, the Institute will continue to have generic application forms in both Irish and English languages for education programmes and training and development programmes. Course details will continue to be available in the language of delivery. The institute recommits to the proposals in the 1st scheme

In accordance with the provisions of section 9(2) of the Official Languages Act, a client who writes to the Institute in Irish shall receive a reply in Irish. The Institute commits to this reply being issued within two weeks and to the same standard as a response would be given in the English language. Clients wishing to carry out their business by phone or in person will continue to be facilitated by an Irish language officer, who will assist them with their enquiries. Reception staff will be familiar with basic greetings in Irish and ask an Irish Language Officer to deal with the client either in person or on the phone. Where the Institute is aware that a client wishes to communicate in Irish, all correspondence to that person will be in that language.

Speeches or press releases relating to Irish language matters will continue to be available in both the Irish and English languages simultaneously. In addition, the following specific press releases will be issued bilingually simultaneously – press releases in relation to publication of Annual Reports and Statements of Strategy.

2.2. Website

All static material on the IPA's website will continue to be bilingual with the exception of the following components which will remain in English only;

- Components aimed at an international audience
- Components of a technical specialist nature
- Web-based programmes / courses which are delivered in the English language only.

2.3 Oral Announcements and callers to the Institute

From commencement of the commencement of the 2nd Scheme, the Institute will ensure that the receptionist or switchboard operation will comply with standard quality customer service practice which is that

- Reception/switchboard staff are able to give the name of the public body in Irish.
- They are at least familiar with the basic greetings in Irish.

Suitable arrangements are in place so that they can put members of the public in touch, without delay, with the office or officer responsible for offering the service required through Irish, where available or to ensure that a response is forthcoming promptly.

CHAPTER 3 - SUMMARY OF SERVICES / ACTIVITIES PROVIDED BY DIVISIONS

3.1 Introduction

This Chapter sets out the position in relation to service provision/external interaction of the Divisions within the Institute and with the general public. It lists the priority areas for action under this scheme.

The Institute acknowledges that clients have the right to request services in the Irish language and it will use its best efforts, consistent with viability considerations, to facilitate all such requests.

3.1.1 Priority for this Scheme

The priorities for this scheme are:

1. To continue to enhance the Institute's ability to provide services in Irish and English

This Unit is responsible for advertising staff vacancies, producing application forms, job descriptions and arranging interviews. It is also responsible for staff welfare and discipline. As the vast majority of the Institute's clients do business in English, interviews will be held in the English language. Curricula Vitae in the Irish language will be considered equally with English language CVs.

The following measures will be put in place by the Human Resources Unit so that an adequate number of staff with proficiency in the Irish language are recruited and retained within the Institute in order to better meet the commitments in this Scheme. In this context
